

NAPPC
TEN
2010

A One Day Symposium to Kick Off the 10th Anniversary
North American Pollinator Protection Campaign International Conference

Pollinators and North American Priorities

Why Pollinators Matter: Benefits, Challenges, and Outcomes

Wednesday, October 20, 2010

9:00am – 4:30pm

U.S. Department of Agriculture, Jefferson Auditorium, Washington, DC

NAPPC Open Symposium

Wednesday, Oct. 20: Pollinators and North American Priorities:

Priority Topics

Pollinators and:

- International Food Security
- Food Safety and Conservation
- Climate Change
- Nutrition and Obesity
- Land Use including Habitat Loss and Energy and Bio-Fuels

Followed by a reception at the USDA Whitten Building Patio.

NAPPC Conference Closed Session Day 1

Thursday, Oct. 21: NAPPC Conference followed by a reception at the National Geographic Society.

NAPPC Conference Closed Session Day 2

Friday, Oct. 22: Last full day of the NAPPC

Who Should Attend?

- Scientists, researchers, conservationists, government officials, educators, farmers, ranchers, private industry, NGO's and dedicated volunteers from the U.S., Mexico and Canada are all welcome to attend the Open Symposium.
- The NAPPC Open Symposium is open to everyone; the public, press and students.
- The NAPPC Conference closed sessions are by invitation. If you would like to attend, please email your request to rsvp@pollinator.org.

This is your unique opportunity to get the latest insights on why pollinators matter, what you can do to help pollinators and, what are the benefits, challenges and outcomes anticipated across the continent in the next decade.

Mark your calendar and distribute this flyer widely!
Full Conference registration will begin August, 2010.
www.napcc.org